WHO'S WHO LEGAL

Real Estate 2017: Analysis

SEPTEMBER 2017 | REAL ESTATE

The 14th edition of Who's Who Legal: Real Estate highlights 821 leading real estate practitioners drawn from 51 jurisdictions. The individuals listed are among the most prominent in the field and are well versed in counselling domestic and international clients on the full range of real estate services, including acquisitions and disposals, leasing, planning and development, joint ventures, financing and estate management.

Practitioners based in North America dominate the listings in this year's research, with more than half of our top-rated lawyers based in Canada and the US. Global law firm DLA Piper retains its position as the leading firm in this area, with 27 pre-eminent practitioners listed across the US, Europe and Australia. A number of other global firms also rank prominently, including leading international firms Greenberg Traurig, Dentons and Clifford Chance, whose practitioners dominate our listings in the US and Europe.

The Thought Leaders are those individuals who received the highest number of nominations from peers, corporate counsel and other market sources this year. Our research has identified them as being truly outstanding practitioners and the very best in their field

LEADING FIRMS

Who's Who Legal does not list law firms, only individual lawyers. The leading firms are those in each region whose listed practitioners received the most total nominations in our research.

DLA PIPER remains a highly dominant player in the US real estate market; with 17 lawyers included, it achieves nearly twice as many listings as any other firm. It boasts recommended practitioners across the country, with offices in Texas, California, New York, Illinois, Massachusetts and Washington, DC.

Jay Epstein is a thought leader at the firm and a practitioner who has “done a remarkable job growing the DLA Piper real estate practice”, according to peers. He handles the full range of transactional real estate matters, including retail, office and mixed-use developments.

Philip Weller in the firm’s Dallas office is an “incredibly knowledgeable” lawyer whose expertise covers the gamut of financing, including REITs and equity investments.

Stephen Cowan “runs the show in San Francisco” according to interviewees, who praise his work on “very sophisticated deals”. He is particularly well regarded for his work handling bankruptcies and fund formations.

Sources call Eugene Pinover “one of the top joint-venture lawyers in the countries”. They are also quick to highlight him as a “very creative” practitioner who “often comes up with out-of-the-box solutions”.

Frederick Klein is described as “one of the best all-round lawyers” at the firm, and a “very knowledgeable” practitioner who is “a go-to lawyer for many clients”.

In Canada, BLAKE CASSELS & GRAYDON occupies a similarly strong position as DLA Piper does in the USA, with listed lawyers based across the four main provinces and a formidable 11 practitioners recognised in total.

“Strong lawyer” Thomas von Hahn is widely regarded as a top-class figure in the market. He has worked on numerous high-value real estate transactions, including Ontario Pension Board’s purchase of a 30 per cent stake in Toronto’s Dominion Centre.

Silvana D’Alimonte is another key name at the firm who is praised for always being “very easy to deal with”. Her work covers the full range of financing and joint venture transactions involving commercial property.

Chris Huband is commended by sources as “a very strong and thorough” practitioner who is “one of the best in Canada” for complex real estate mandates. He frequently works with pension funds on investments and also assists other funds and investors in the sector.

BALLARD SPAHR offers clients an exceptional depth of expertise in high-value and sophisticated real estate matters. Its eight practitioners listed are based across five states in the US.

Roger Winston is “one of the best lawyers around” say sources, who also name him as “a true leader in the real estate bar”. He continues to be known for his outstanding work in condominium and mixed-use developments.

Gary York is a “highly regarded finance lawyer” working solely in the real estate sector. He offers clients a tremendous breadth of experience, with over 40 years spent working in the area.

FRIED FRANK HARRIS SHRIVER & JACOBSON has six lawyers listed in the US, including five in its New York office.

“Superstar” practitioner Jonathan Mechanic once again stands out as one of the leading names on our list. Respondents say: “Jonathan is excellent at large, complicated transactions, particularly involving leases.”

Sources “think highly of” Stephen Lefkowitz, calling him a “first-rate lawyer” and “one of the premier guys for zoning and land use”.

Robert Sorin is another of the firm’s outstanding partners, who primarily acts on real estate transactions involving retail, office and hotel properties. He is well known for his strong financing expertise.

Joshua Mermelstein is also recommended for his 35 years’ experience in the sector. He handles a broad array of restructurings, development and joint venture deals among other matters.

Eight practitioners are listed in GREENBERG TRAURIG’s US offices, all but one in its New York office.

“Top guy” Robert Ivanhoe is the chair of the firm’s real estate practice and a “truly excellent” lawyer, according to interviewees. He advises clients on the full range of matters including leasing, financing transactions and joint ventures.

Gary Kleinman is described as “superb” by sources who highlight his impressive work in the financing arena, acting for both lenders and borrowers.

Stephen Rabinowitz is also highly recommended for his depth of expertise in the field. He primarily represents investors, including asset managers and private equity funds.

VENABLE’s three listed lawyers include two heavy hitters, in the form of Thought Leaders Kevin Shepherd and Philip Horowitz.

Kevin Shepherd is noted as “simply one of the best and most talented real estate lawyers around” by one peer, who also highlights his “invaluable work” and “great ability with clients” as among Shepherd’s key strengths.

Philip Horowitz handles a variety of transactions involving financings and leaseings, among other matters. Sources call him “a great all-around lawyer” in the field.

Robert Gottlieb also comes highly recommended by sources who say, “There is no better real estate tax lawyer in the country – Robert really is the best.”

New Orleans-based boutique SHER GARNER CAHILL RICHTER KLEIN & HILBERT boasts four excellent practitioners in this space.

Leopold Sher is described as “the very best” by one impressed source thanks to his exceptional transactional real estate expertise. He frequently handles complex matters involving REITs, commercial and mixed-use developments and joint ventures.

Elwood Cahill “knows New Orleans and everything that goes on there” declares one source, who adds that “he has never let a client down”. He has over 35 years’ experience in the real estate space.

MCCARTHY TÉTRAULT continues to boast one of the top real estate practices in Canada and is home to six listed lawyers.

Thought Leader Abraham Costin has a “strong reputation” and is regarded as “one of the very best” in Canada by peers. He acts for a wide range of developers and financial institutions.

James Papadimitriou is “a practical lawyer who is a pleasure to deal with”, according to sources. He handles financing transactions in the real estate space, including acting for banks and retail operators in relation to leasing.

KATTEN MUCHIN ROSENMAN has five lawyers listed this year.

Alvin Katz frequently acts for both developers and investors in the real estate arena, utilising his 40 years' experience to great effect. He is considered "a very fine lawyer" by peers and clients alike.

Kenneth Jacobson is a standout real estate attorney who sources praise for "his willingness to help and get involved on issues involving others in his firm to get a resolution".

Seasoned attorney Donald Siskind is also recommended for his impressive depth of experience in the area.
